

Notes 11/16/2022:

Header Bar:

The Header bar line that mimics the stitches is nice, just like we talked last time. The line on the initial build is a little dense, it's better to be more similar to the line in the Revised Mockup.

The Background color of the Header Bar is slightly different from the content background. I think it's good to separate them...?

The subtle texture of the background is nice.

Small Problem:

I can still see a slight seam between the repeating background images (on the "Life in Paris" page, which is quite a long page)

My easy way to fix this:

Flip the background image vertically, connect the bottom of the original image with the top of the newly flipped image, they should connect almost seamlessly.

The Type looks good. The Secondary type is also working.

Some texture for the Website Title "Yohji Yamamoto" might be nice? Now it's a little bit plain. (But simple might be good, need some testing and comparing)

Some Alignment issues need to be fixed.

For example:

Some page titles are not in the same position. ("Life in Japan" not in middle)

Life in Paris Page: first two image width are matched (good for Mobile view), but Height is not, which cause misalignment for Desktop view.

Keep working on the Hamburger Menu Bar on Top Left corner for mobile view.

The overview content is wrong. Replace the content.

Extra thoughts on some minor Details (if you got time):

Is the footer too simple?

Is the Source page too simple?
